Six Flat Cars and an Engine Were On It at the Time.

Seven Workmen Dashed to Death, Four Fatally Injured and Six Seriously Injured-The Great Northern Railway, Near Seattle, Wash, the Scene.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 26 .- An apalling accident occurred to a gang of workmen who were doing some bridge construction work on the Great Northern railroad, Monday morning, resulting in the death of seven and the fatal injury of four and the serious injury of

No intimation of the terrible catastrophe was given to the unfortunate

All were busy with their respective duties when the bridge shook, tottered, and finally collapsed entirely, dashing them against the solid rock below. Six flat cars and an engine were on the bridge at the time. The engine was uncoupled. luckily for some of the injured, because the horror of roasting to death would have been added to the distressing acci-

The east end of the bridge was reached Sunday night and it was the intention of Superintendent Farrell, who was in charge of the crew, to push the work on the track laying beyond the bridge Monday. When the men went to work Monday the rails were quickly laid across the east approach, which was a permanent structure. Beyond this approach were two spans of temporary bridge.

The first span was crossed safely, but the train was delayed on some account right in the center of the west span, and the men had hardly got to work when the bridge collapsed. The temporary structure was supported by piles driven in the gravel, and in such a way each span depended upon the other. Of the train of six cars three were laden with rails, two with ties, and one with a derrick.

A MONSTER STRIKE

Organizing by the Railroad Switchmen to Cripple the World's Fair Business to

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 26.-The switchmen of the country are preparing for a monster strike next May, expecting to cripple the World's fair business of the railroads and force them to concede the demands of employes. "The Buffalo strike and the lesser ones which have occurred this year," said Secretary Heimerle, of the Switchmen's union, "are but preludes to the great strikes of 1893. It will be a strike the like of which has never been seen and will extend all over the country. The railroads wish enormous profits. The people would not want the World's fair injured and a clamor would arise which would force the roads to a settlement. The plans are all made for a giant uprising, and the demands this fall are to test the attitude of the railroads towards us. The Buffalo switchmen are biding their time until next spring, when they will take part in a strike which will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the great lakes to the gulf. The uprising will be national."

A New Two-Dollar Counterfeit. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The secret the new issue of the new 82 silver certificate series 1886, check letter B. 2385. W. S. Rosecrans register, James W. Hyatt, treasurer. The most marked difference between this note and the genuine, and a difference which will result in the detection of the counterfeit at a glance is that the upper loop of the J. in James in the signature of James W. Hyatt points directly between the D. C. after Washington in the genuine, while in the counterfeit it is about one-eighth of an inch to the left or immediately under the letter D. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 .- A great number of telegrams conveying messages of sympathy and sorrow have been received at the white house. They have not been brought to the notice of the president, and none will be made public until he has been made acquainted with them. One of the first came from Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland. Mrs. Harrison's body lay undisturbed until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Undertaker W. R. Speare and assistants took charge and prepared it for examination by Dr. Gardner.

Services at the White House Thursday Morning, After Which the Remains Wil

He Taken to Indianapolis. Washington, Oct. 26.-The arrangements for Mrs. Harrison's funeral have been changed.

Services will be held in the east room Thursday morning, not Wednesday. The remains will immediately afterward be removed by special train to Indianapolis.

The train will probably leave the sta-tion at noon and it will be due in Indianapolis about 9 o'clock Friday morning. From the station in the president's nome city the funeral cortege will proceed directly and without delay to the First Presbyterian church, corner of New York and Pennsylvania streets. Here Rev. M. L. Haines, the president's pastor, will conduct simple services, attendance on which will probably be restricted to relatives and intimate

Leaving the church the funeral procession will wind its way to the beautiful cemetery of Crown Hill, where the body will be interred with brief and simple ceremony. The exact resting place was selected Tuesday by friends of the family in Indianapolis.

It is not the desire of the executive family to remain in Indianapolis for rest after the fatigue of the journey from Washington. The arrangements for the funeral contemplate an immediate return on their part to the railroad station, the special train to leave for Washington a short time thereafter.

The services at the white house on Thursday morning will be of the simplest character, and the utmost privacy will attend them. Lemus S. Hamlin, of the Church of the Covenant in this city, the pastor of the white house family, will conduct the services.

At 11 o'clock a broad ribbon of crepe, with pinked ends, was tied in a bow on the bell-pull of the front door of the mansion. The folds fell to the stone doorsten. This was the only sign, aside from the absence of the flag overhead, of the presence of the great mystery within.

Such members of the cabinet as are in Washington and those who will be able to reach here before Thursday will act as honorary pall-bearers at the funeral. Chief Justice Fuller will also be an honorary pall-bearer.

The ladies of the family, worn out by their long vigil and the terrible crushing blow that has fallen upon them, needed the tender sympathy which a few intimate friends hastened to bestow. Mrs. Miller, the wife of the attorney general, came very early and tried to console the afflicted ladies of the house of death.

Mrs. Breckinridge, the wife of the inspector general of the army, an intimate friend of Mrs. Harrison, was also an early visitor. Mrs. Wilmerding, Secretary Tracey's daughter, whose own beloved dead not long since lay within the same walls and who in that deep sorrow was soothed and sustained by the kindly ministrations of Mrs. Harrison, also came to tender sympa-

Gen. Veal Wronged a Woman Twenty-Three Years Ago.

The Long-Kept Secret Communicated to Her Husband, Dr. Jones, Who Took the First Opportunity He Got to Wipe Out the Foul Blot.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 26 .- One of the most surprising tragedies in the criminal history of Texas, and one that has produced a profound sensation throughout the state, owing to the prominence of the parties involved, was enacted in this city Tuesday in the headquarters of Camp Sterling Price. Dr. R. H. Jones, of this city, shot and instantly killed Brig.-Gen. W. G. Veal, of the Trans-Mississippi department of the United Confederate Veterans.

Gen. Veal was seated at a table writing an order, when Jones walked in, pulled his pistol and shot him dead. The building was crowded with officers and members of the confederate association. Jones was seized, turned over to Sheriff Lewis, and by him taken to the county jail. The killing produced intense excitement, as there are thousands of old veterans in the city.

Justice Braswill held an inquest on the body, and returned a verdict in accordance with the facts. Mrs. Veal, who resides at Ft. Worth, was wired the news, and came at once to the city. The funeral will take place to-day at 1 o'clock, and will be conducted with military honors.

Gen. W. G. Veal was widely kown throughout the south. He was born in Knoxville, Tenn., and came to Texas forty-five years ago. He was in business at Jefferson prior to the war. He served in Gen. Parsons' Texas brigade, and was a most daring soldier and scout. He was known as the "Texas Bull" in war times and had been often wounded in battle, After the war he became interested in railroading and the cotton business at Galveston. About fifteen years ago he quit business and became a minister of the Methodist church at Waxahachie, Ellis county. He had a flourishing congregation. A Mrs. Griffin, belonging to one of the leading families, charged him with offering her a gross insult. One of the most sensational trials in the history of Texas followed. He was convicted, expelled from the church, and also from the Masons by the grand lodge of the state. Gen. Veal has since been active in business and a most bitter opponent of Gov. Hogg.

Dr. R. H. Jones is a native of Huntsville, Ala., and served as a surgeon of a Mississippi regiment during the war. He came to Texas twenty-five years ago, and twenty years ago married the widow Ballington. Five children have been born to them. Dr. Jones declares that his wife is the cause of Veal's death. According to his story, twentythree years ago, when the woman was a widow, Veal wronged her. A month ago Jones became the possessor of this secret and determined to kill Veal. For the first time Tuesday opportunity presented itself. and politician was shot down like a dog. Jones was the sole topic of conversation in the city Tuesday night. Public sentiment is not favorable to the slayer, and the friends of Veal denounce the killing as a cold-blooded and atrocious murder. The Jones family stand high in society, and the :riends of the woman ridicule the charges made affecting her reputation. Veal was commander of Parson's veterans, and was idolized by the men.

KIND WORDS.

The London Press on the Death of Mrs.

LONDON, Oct. 26 .- The Chronicle says: Very great sympathy with President Harrison will be felt everywhere. Mrs. Harrison was the counterpart of her husband, whose private character is admired and respected by his political enemies."

The News eulogizes the deceased lady, and praises her courage in going to Washington when she knew her illness was fatal, adding: "She had won the regard of the American nation by her worth of character and devotion to her husband."

The Graphic, in condoling with President Harrison, says: "We think his success is partly due to his wife's counsel and inspiration. Her death comes at a peculiarly cruel moment,"

The Times says: "The death of Mrs. Harrison is an event of more than ordinary importance, inasmuch as her husband's success may, in a very large degree be ascribed to her. Wide in her culture, catholic in her tastes and ideas, she broadened her wide circle of friends with advancing years. Her death will cause genuine, widespread sorrow."

Resolutions Adopted. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The national board of Daughters of the American Revolution met Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of expressing the feelings of the board on the death of Mrs. Harrison, president of the society. Resolutions of love and sympathy were adopted.
